

Sharon Lee

Sharon Lee has a story to tell and a tapestry to weave. The story is her own, and the tapestry is made up of the experiences in her life. But the picture that quickly emerges through the Bible, music and sharing is that of the face of Jesus Christ. It is Christ that is central to Sharon's life, and she wouldn't have it any other way.

Sharon's early years are the key to her personal blessings and the story she tells. From playing and singing in country bands at an early age, to her marriage to her high school sweetheart, and the son they have together, it's a story filled with the peaks and valleys of the Southern Indiana hills. However, it was in these valleys that Sharon discovered Jesus Christ.

Sharon was raised in church, and was sincere in her devotion to religion. However, she never walked in God's power, nor entrusted her life completely to Him. As an adult, Sharon began to face multiple crises. In the midst of a life that looked good on the outside, but was falling apart on the inside, Jesus came to her and transformed her walk into one that is personal, intimate, and joyful. Sharon gave her whole life to Jesus Christ. As a result, her life was blessed personally, and the ministry she has today is a result of her walk with the Lord.

Sharon was trained for ministry through Bible Study Fellowship, studying with them for 5 years. She also completed 3 years of Bible College through the Institute of Theology by Extension out of Des Moines, Iowa.

Sharon Lee

Sharon has been involved with her local church, serving as an elder and lay-leader for many years under Dr. Steven Grant at Voice for Christ in Rushville, Indiana. Currently she leads worship and is involved in leadership at Shelbyville Community Church in Shelbyville, Indiana under the direction of senior pastor, Brad Davis. She is highly regarded as an ordained minister, teacher, mentor, worship leader and group leader.

Sharon has also led worship for Emmaus Walks for several years, leading worship and providing prayer counseling and support. She formerly was president of an Aglow International lighthouse in Greensburg, Indiana, and continues to participate in both church and parachurch ministry. Whether it's teaching, singing, or sharing one-on-one, Sharon's passion for Christ changes lives!

Sharon's current adventure with God has enabled her to team up with a talented group of musicians and writers to record a CD in Nashville, Tennessee. This project is now available, and is highly anticipated. Sharon handles the Word and the guitar quite well, and her vocal talents are excellent besides.

On the personal side Sharon and her husband Steve of 30 years, enjoy serving the Lord together. They have one grown son, Nicholas, and enjoy family activities, including camping, boating, and traveling together.
